WILL FIGHT FOR HEADQUARTERS OF BIG ASSOCIATION

Memphis Lumbermen Will Resist Efforts of Louisville League to Have Offices of A. H. M. A. Removed.

Hardwood lumber manufacturers of Memphis and throughout the valley territory will throw their entire weight in favor of maintenance of headquarters of the American Hardwood Manufacturers' association in Memphis at the meeting of this organization at Louisville, Ky., Dec. 17-18 when members of the Louisville manufacturers' association of the United States will be absorbed by it.

As between the present membership of the American Hardwood Manufacturers' association and the Louisville Manufacturers' association, the latter has been no discussion whatever of the removal of those offices from Memphis. But the Louisville Publishers and Convention league has already begun a campaign in the Louisville Courier-Journal for their removal from Memphis to Louisville.

This organization, in a long article appearing in that paper, has called attention to what it says is the office of this organization would be put how centrally Louisville is located with respect to hardwood interests affiliated with this organization.

Memphis likewise appreciates the advantages arising from having these offices centrally located and enjoys the distinction of being the center of the hardwood production in the United States. Membership in the American Hardwood Manufacturers' association, before absorption of those offices, has been a source of pride to the Memphis lumbermen, and it is estimated that Memphis is the center of a territory producing 2,000,000 feet annually.

The largest delegation of hardwood manufacturers from the Southern field ever attending a convention of this sort will go to Louisville and they will go thoroughly equipped to present the claims of Memphis in the most attractive and most energetic form. They appear to have no doubt as to the outcome of the fight, in the opinion of the majority, there is no comparison of relative claims between Memphis and Louisville in respect to headquarters of this association which was organized in Memphis last January.

RED CROSS GETS READY FOR XMAS ROLL CALL DRIVE

Every man, woman and child in Memphis and Shelby county is expected to respond to the Red Cross Christmas roll call this year by becoming a member of that great organization. Plans for the great enrollment are now being made by S. M. Williamson, chairman of the membership drive, and hundreds of assistants representing every organization in the city.

The Red Cross Christmas roll call will begin Dec. 16. The Liberty loan organization, the Parent-Teacher association, Boy Scouts, Kiwanis, Lions and every organization in the city will unite in the effort to make Memphis the first 100 per cent Red Cross city in the United States.

It is planned that all women will wear the Red Cross cap and veil, and when possible the full Red Cross uniform. They will have headquarters in all the schools and in all downtown districts. The main headquarters for the campaign will be in the Fisher building, and will be opened the latter part of the week.

At a meeting of the publicity committee, of which P. D. Benke is chairman, at the Chamber of Commerce at 11 o'clock Tuesday morning, plans for advertising and publicity features were formed.

A great pageant or parade will probably be held the opening day. Another feature which will be carried out will be the illuminated Red Cross in the windows of every home where there are Red Cross members.

Sunday, Dec. 15, will be "Red Cross Sunday" in all of the churches of the city. Ministers will tell of the great need of the services of the Red Cross during the reconstruction period in caring for the soldiers and helping to rebuild homes destroyed during the war.

A large membership now means more to the organization than money, for mere financial aid can not accomplish the great work which must be done in Europe, as well as in America. Every American may become a member of the Red Cross when the Christmas roll call is sounded, for a membership fee is only $1.

Assisting Williamson in perfecting plans for the campaign are W. W. Maloney and Hugh R. Wynn, vice-chairmen of the Christmas roll call committee.

P. D. Benke, publicity chairman, is assisted by the following committee: O. K. Houck, features; Henry Lake, advertising; J. F. Bronson, window display; Thornton Newsom, distribution; T. O. Bailey, finance; Edward R. Barrow, singers; C. A. McElreavey, theater; and R. D. Crow, Boy Scouts.
